

I thank you for this opportunity to comment. First just to let you know how much I appreciate my KLOVE station. The music is uplifting and very positive. There are no commercials and I don't need to worry about the content that they present.

Regarding the proposed regulations I am concerned that they would greatly infringe on the content and availability of these stations.

Specifically- if a committee were to be placed in an oversight role it is conceivable that someone who is hostile to Christian radio could undermine the very core principles of the station and it's listeners.

Regarding the staffing requirements it would be onerous and detrimental to the financial well being and could cause many stations to cease operation due to the tremendous financial load.

Additionally, there has long been a legal understanding of the Grandfather Clause and to make existing viable translators clear a frequency for a lower level transmitter would seem to go against that clause and the public good especially when the Christian community is so underrepresented in the radio industry.

Thank you for your time and careful consideration of all the comments.

Sincerely,

Douglas L. Conrad
